WHO WE ARE

The Moravian Historical Society, the third oldest historical society in Pennsylvania, has worked to preserve Moravian history, architecture, art, music, and culture since 1857. We present these stories through exciting exhibitions, programs and special events for the entire family, annual publications, and by providing research access to our collection.

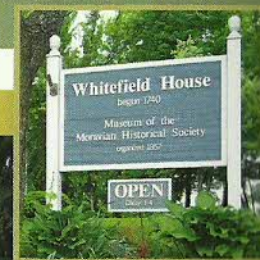

Housed on the historic Ephrata Tract in beautiful downtown Nazareth, Pennsylvania, we maintain the 1740/1743 Whitefield House and the oldest surviving Moravian structure, the 1740 Gray Cottage. We are a proud affiliate of the Moravian Archives, Bethlehem.

WHY BECOME A MEMBER? WHERE DO MEMBERSHIP FEES GO?

Members of the Moravian Historical Society join a community of historians, teachers, artists, and life-long learners who value history. Our members are eager to share their interest in the past and in what the past teaches us about the present and the future. Support from members helps us preserve our historic buildings and rich collection of objects from around the globe: North America, Asia, Europe, Africa, the Caribbean, and more. Your support also makes possible the exhibitions, youth programming, other educational efforts, and publications that engage the public in new and exciting ways.

WHAT DO MEMBERS GET?

Each member of the Moravian Historical Society is warmly welcomed to the Society with a membership packet and card, which details upcoming events for the year. Members enjoy unlimited complimentary admission to the Whitefield House Museum to experience one of the oldest and most exquisite collections of Moravian objects. Guests are able to view the earliest known violin produced in colonial America, paintings by Moravian artists John Valentine Haidt and Gustav Grunewald, a pipe organ made by early America's premier organ-builder David Tannenberg, and much more! Members also receive two free issues of our newsletter, Abundant Heritage.
